

Ann Jones, DDS MPH

General Dentist

Education: Undergraduate at Seattle Pacific University, Master of Public Health at University of Maryland School of Medicine, Doctorate at University of Maryland Baltimore College of Dental Surgery

Dental Interests: Providing compassionate, shame-free support to patients with dental fears or insecurities. Helping patients get their dental health back on track after life's detours. Minimally invasive dentistry and motivational interviewing are an important part of my practice.

Hobbies: Reading, thrift shopping, quilting, experimental baking, putting my two green thumbs to use caring for my garden and exotic indoor houseplant collection, and exploring to find the perfect donut with my husband and two kids.