

Denise Goudelock

Dental Hygienist

Education: BS in Dental Hygiene from Virginia Commonwealth University, MA in Organizational Management in 2002 from the University of Phoenix. Recently retired as Commissioned Officer with the United States Public Health Service.

Dental Interests: Denise has had the great pleasure of serving Native American communities for the past 35 years. Denise has a passion for educating patients, so they fully understand how to properly be the best advocate in the care of their oral health. The best part is building relationships and rapport with patients while at the same time seeing the before and after oral health results.

Hobbies: Denise loves to exercise, participate in the Puyallup Tribe community sweat lodge and volunteer in the community and her Church.
